

Welcoming the MBA graduates to the IEDC Alumni Network

Bled (Slovenia), 10 December 2009

IEDC Alumni met new peers (98 managers from 19 countries) who received the Venetian bird, an IEDC MBA graduation symbol designed by Mr. Oskar Kogoj. At this occasion Dr. Nenad Filipović, IEDC Academic Director, led a special lecture for the alumni titled "Crisis-So What?".

In his lecture, Dr. Nenad Filipović explained how the understanding of deeper roots of crisis and their implications for business and society at large can help the managers to form the "big picture". Together with alumni and other guests dr. Filipović discussed what this means for managers in Slovenian companies, as well as their counterparts in Central and Eastern Europe.

After the lecture the IEDC alumni received fresh graduates to the great IEDC Alumni Network. At the event Prof. Danica Purg, president of IEDC, and Janko Medja, president of IEDC Alumni Club Slovenia, addressed the new alumni and presented them the bird, and IEDC MBA graduation symbol. The address was followed by a social gathering which provided networking, tasty snacks and enjoyable music.

Prof. Danica Purg and Janko Medja welcoming the MBA graduates to the IEDC Alumni Network

A Venetian bird, an IEDC MBA graduation symbol designed by Mr. Oskar Kogoj